Death Claims R. W. Hartman

Founded Electric Company

Business Leader Ill Short Time

R. W. HARTMAN

Rudolph William Hartman, 74, founder and president of the Hartman Electrical Manufacturing company and one of the founders of the Isaly Dairy company, died late yesterday afternoon at General hospital.

Mr. Hartman became ill early this week and entered the hospital four days ago.

Born in Mansfield Oct. 21, 1873, he attended Hedges school until he was 15 and then became a clerk in the G. H. Black dry goods store. A short time later he learned the iron molder's trade at the Baxter Stove company. At 19 he became manager of a foundry in Asheville, N. C., founded by his brother.

Mr. Hartman returned to Mansfield in 1894 to study law with the late Attorney A. W. Twitchell. He was admitted to the bar in 1898 and joined the Twitchell law firm. He practiced for a number of years, but devoted most of his time after 1904 to the Hartman Electrical company which he founded in that year.

He was one of the organizers of the Isaly Dairy company, becoming a director of the company in 1904. He was secretary of the firm at the time of his death.

HEADED LOAN FIRM

Long active in the Mechanics Building and Loan company, he was president of that firm and also headed the Westbrook company, operators of the Westbrook Country club. He served on the advisory board of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank. He was a deacon of the First Congregational church.

Mr. Hartman's parents were Dominikus and Barbara Bowers Hartman. His wife, Mrs. Florence Frederick Hartman, died in 1922. A brother, Ernest R. Hartman, who was active in the city's business circles, died last January.

Surviving are two sons, Lewis F., vice president and secretary of the Hartman Electrical company, and Albert W., of Falls Church, Va.; two daughters, Mrs. Henry R. Macy of Oyster Bay, L. I., and Miss Martha Hartman, New York City; nine grandchildren; a brother, Frank O., of Mansfield, and two sisters, Mrs. J. E. Upson of Mansfield, and Mrs. Anna McCully of Toledo.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. Matthew G. Madden, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating. Burial will be in the family lot in the Mansfield cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 9 p. m. Sunday. The family has asked that flowers be omitted.

Active pallbearers will be Russell E. Upson, John G. Woods, L. J. Cashell, Fred S. Kelly, R. L. Harrison, William J. Locke, Charles Calver and B. Jay Small.

Named honorary pallbearers were William A. Bowers, Arthur E. Courtney, Louis A. Wells, John J. McIntyre, Dr. John S. Hattery, M. Dale Ward, Fred Herring, W. J. Spreng and Henry G. Brunner.

Arab Troops Prepare to Open Drive

Plan Attack In Palestine

CAIRO—(INS)—Arab sources in Cairo said today that troops of Transjordan's powerful Arab legion will march on Palestine within ten days.

At the same time, the Iraqi government announced in Baghdad that an Iraqi military mission, including the minister of defense and the chief of staff, have gone to the Transjordan capital of Amman.

They reportedly will discuss plans for "immediate action to save the Arabs of Palestine."

Demonstrators paraded through Baghdad's streets demanding immediate military aid to Palestine's Arabs from the Iraqi army. Sympathy strikes and the closing of schools and stores throughout the country were reported.

The Cairo informants declared that recent Jewish military successes—particularly the daring seizure of the port city of Haifa—prompted the Arab league to its new decision.

Earlier, the league was understood to have been willing to withhold intervening until the British surrendered the mandate on May 15.

Car Dealer Will Appeal

CLEVELAND—(INS)— Attorneys for John W. Singleton, Cleveland's fabulous "new-used" car dealer, were to appeal today in Cuyahoga common pleas court the defendant's conviction yesterday on 14 counts of larceny by trick.

Stephen M. Young, counsel for Singleton, said he would file a plea for a new trial on six grounds, citing chiefly the introduction of the defendant's testimony in bankruptcy court as a form of requiring him to testify against himself.

If retrial is denied, Young declared, he will carry the case to the court of appeals.

Singleton, formerly of Mansfield, faces sentence on the basis of one to seven years on each count, which may range from one year concurrent service to 98 years consecutively.

Judge Frank B. Merrick postponed sentencing until the opening of the summer session May 3. Singleton's hearings in bankruptcy court will resume May 4.

Health Cult Leader Weds

The ceremony at the palm-shaded community church on fashionable Lincoln road was marred by an outburst by a crusader known only as "the goat woman."

At the reception, some 500 guests sipped carrot juice and munched whole wheat flour and honey cake. To non-followers of the MacFadden theory of health, champagne was served and consumed in quantity.

RED RIVER FLOODING

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (UP)— The rampaging Red river drove 200 families from their homes here today as floods struck in northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota.

Jury Fails Of Verdict

BUCYRUS —(AP) — A jury which tried three Marion youths on a charge which grew out of the strife-torn North Electric company strike at Galion, failed to agree in three and a half hour's deliberation last night and was discharged by Common Pleas Judge Clarence V. Ahl.

The trio — Walter Foust, James Wilson and Richard Gibson — were charged with operating a company truck without the owner's consent.

They contended they were in a Galion restaurant when two North Electric employes were abducted in the truck last fall.

No date has been set for their trial on other charges, including assault and battery, kidnaping and grand larceny.

The trial on the auto charge began Thursday.

Calls Shiloh Vet Housing 'Deplorable'

County Board Orders Inquiry

An investigation of "deplorable" sanitary conditions at the Shiloh veterans housing project erected a year ago by the county commissioners was ordered today by the county board of health.

On a motion by Dr. Charles Butner, Ray O. Scott, sanitary engineer, was instructed to investigate and make recommendations for correction to the commissioners.

Dr. Butner said the veterans' housing units are close to the city dump and are occupied by four veterans families, all of which have young children.

"The houses were obviously built of green lumber, because cracks exist between the roof and walls of the units and large cracks are also evident around the doors," he said.

The doctor added that because of the condition of the lumber, screening was virtually impossible, but that every possible precaution should be taken to keep disease-bearing flies out of the buildings.

Terming the units a definite health hazard, Dr. Butner said that the dump contains dead cats and dogs in addition to regular refuse.

Scott also was instructed to look into unsanitary conditions in "several Shiloh restaurants. Dr. Butner reported the regular customers of the restaurants to be studied had contracted stomach disorders.

List Ohioan As Suspect

Fugitive Linked To Reuther Case

TOLEDO — (INS) — Toledo police today named James C. Osinski, fugitive from a triple-slaying charge, a suspect in the attempted assassination of Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president.

Detective Capt. Murphy said information is on the way to Detroit authorities concerning the fugitive.

Murphy reported that Osinski, widely sought suspect in the murder of his wife and her elderly parents in Toledo last December, had been active in several radical organizations in Toledo. He added that Osinski is believed to have similar connections in Detroit.

Letters found in Osinski's room pointed to his radical leanings, Murphy said. The police captain refused to disclose just what definite information pointed to Osinski in the Reuther shooting.

Osinski is under a murder indictment on charges of murdering his wife, 22, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ditmyer. All were shot to death in the Ditmyer home Dec. 13.

Mrs. Rowland defeated Mrs. Hugh L. Russell, Ashland, Ky. A third candidate, Mrs. Howard B. Gorham, Providence, R. I., withdrew during the balloting. Mrs. McCall defeated Mrs. Francis Cushman Wilson, Santa Fe, N. M. for the honorary post.

McGraw Tops In SAR Contest

Mansfield Youth Wins Speech Honors

William McGraw, 17, of 266 Helen avenue, won state honors and a $100 cash prize last night in the Ohio Sons of American Revolution historical speech contest in Mansfield.

He competed with seven other high school students at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The contest was held during the opening sessions of the Ohio SAR convention which will continue through this afternoon.

M'GRAW

Robert Versteeg, Central high school, Lima, and William Liebtag, North Canton high school, North Canton, were awarded the second and third prizes of $50 and $25 in the contest here.

The other competitors from SAR chapters in Ohio were William Ruetschle, Stivers high school, Dayton; Amiel Wohl, Walnut Hills high school, Cincinnati; Curtis Mathis, Lincoln high school, Cleveland; Charles Montgomery, Euclid high school, Euclid, and Robert Woods, Toledo Libbey high school, Toledo.

Delegates to the convention yesterday heard Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant of the Ohio Supreme court call for an all-out battle against the "infiltration of foreign government policies in the United States."

"If being reactionary is adhering to the ideals of American democracy then I don't object to being called a reactionary," he said.

A. Herbert Foreman, president general of the National Society SAR, in his address "Fighting for Our Heritage" warned of the dangers of subversive propaganda in this country. He spoke last night.

"We have been given a challenge to fight this subversiveness and to become ambassadors to the principles and continuance of our heritage as free people," he said.

Project's Success Is Assured

Auction Opens In Festive Mood

It was "going-going—gone" at the Richland county fairgrounds today, but "it's coming for sure" in the minds of hundreds of farm folk.

The Rural Life Center Inc., was holding an auction to raise funds to insure completion of its project. Smiling faces, eager purchasers and willing donors seemed to assure success of the project.

Each chant of the auctioneer, Neil Robinson, seemed to echo the oft-expressed sentiment of the crowd: "We've worked hard to make this thing go; we're going to have our rural life center."

Land for the project already is assured. An 80-acre farm one-half mile east of Oakland church in Weller township has been purchased.

STEADY STREAM

From all of the county, folk came to give and to buy. As early as 8 a. m. farmers started to bring in their gifts—squealing pigs, moanfully mooing calves and a baaing goat. They still were bringing gifts at noon in a steady stream.

The scene was a festive one. Everywhere happy faces greeted the visitors.

Long lines formed at the refreshment booths. Pieces of 4-H club and Grange ladies' cakes went for 10 cents a slice; hot dogs and sloppy joes for a nickel. They sold in abundance.

The cakes were donated; the wieners were donated; the ingredients for the sloppy joes were donated. Everything came to the fairgrounds for free; it was carried away by folk who paid a wide range of prices for it.

Robinson also donated his services. His first auctioneering effort came when a radio was offered for sale. It brought $11. Literal-

Divorce Ink Barely Given Chance to Dry

Topping-Turner Wedding Due Monday

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The way was cleared today for the wedding movieland has been predicting all year — Actress Lana Turner and tinplate heir Henry J. (Bob) Topping jr.

The ink was barely dry on the divorce decree Arline Judge obtained from Topping in Bridgeport, Conn., when the Turner-Topping ceremony was set for Monday here.

The nuptials will be held in the home of William R. Wilkerson, Hollywood trade paper-publisher who will double as best man.

It will be the fourth marriage for both 28-year-old Lana and Bob, 34.

The affair will have more than just a touch of what Hollywood terms "class." Miss Turner has ordered a $25,000 trousseau, including $5,000 worth of lingerie.

Filmtown insiders speculated Topping might decide to toss the big party which was cancelled last January before Miss Judge bowed out of the picture.

Topping at that time sent out some 400 invitations to a $25,000 champagne party at the Sunset Strip club he had engaged, in Toto.

The millionaire sportsman filed suit first against Miss Judge, and Arline filed counter-suit. It was on her charge of intolerable cruelty that Arlene walked out of court yesterday with $100,000 alimony in one lump.

The former actress, in shedding her fifth husband, testified Topping once threw her and her maid bodily out of their Long Island summer home. She said he was insanely jealous, struck her, called her vile names and twice threatened to shoot her.

Miss Judge testified the trouble started about a month after they were married in Miami Beach, Fla., April 29, 1947. It was Arline's second settlement with a Topping. She got $250,000 plus when she divorced Dan Topping — her second husband and Bob's brother — in 1940.

FCC Hit In New Expose

Six members of the seven-man Federal Communications commission were confronted with new accusations and criticism in Washington today.

Already under fire for the manner in which Toledo Lawyer Edward Lamb was allotted five radio station licenses including one in Mansfield, in three weeks time, the FCC members today stood accused of receiving "free" television sets from the Radio Corporation of America.

Senator C. W. Tobey (R-NH) leveled the charges that the six commissioners received $475 television sets free.

A spokesman for the FCC—Atty. C. B. Margraf—said that the sets were "loaned" to FCC commissioners and their staff members so that the officials might know just how television is progressing.

CONGRESSMEN, TOO

Senator Tobey promised to find out how many people in official Washington have been receiving free television sets "including members of Congress," according to a Washington dispatch by International News Service.

Tobey announced that the Senate Commerce committee, of which he is acting chairman, would open hearings on the television set "loans" and other radio matters next week.

Tobey added, according to INS, that he was "not at all satisfied" with the explanation that the sets were loaned. In fact, he said, he considered that explanation to be "phoney."

PROMISED LIST

He demanded and was promised a list of everybody in official Washington who was "loaned, if that's the word, RCA television sets," INS said.

Tobey also told newsmen that the hearings starting next week would go in "the way the large interests have hamstrung progress in radio circles."

At yesterday's session—which started out as a hearing on the Johnson radio power control bill—Tobey charged that RCA and its affiliate, the National Broadcasting company, did all possible to block the development of frequency modulation (FM) high-fidelity radio and to sell television sets which would soon be outmoded.

JONES REJECTS 'LOAN'

FCC Commissioner Robert F. Jones of Lima refused to accept an RCA television set. He is the FCC member who has consistently dissented from the commission decisions granting radio licenses to Lamb.

Other members of the commission are: Chairman Wayne Coy, Clifford J. Durr, Edward M. Webster, Rosel H. Hyde, Paul A. Walker and George E. Sterling.

Durr Will Leave FCC

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Clifford J. Durr, whose wife is supporting Henry A. Wallace for president, is going to retire from the Federal Communications commission. He blames "low pay" of commissioners, however, and not politics.

Durr's term on the commission expires June 30. His wife, Mrs. Virginia Foster Durr, has accepted chairmanship of the North Virginia provisional Wallace committee.

She is a sister-in-law of Supreme Court Justice Hugo F. Black. Durr, himself, has been an outspoken critic of President Truman's loyalty program for government employes which calls for government workers to fill out questionnaires, be finger-printed and otherwise investigated.

Pupils Learn Thievery Art

Richard Stiver, who has taught in Johnsville-New Lebanon (Dixie) high school for about 18 months, was arrested yesterday.

Stiver was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old and with authorizing the student and another 18-year-old youth to steal automobile accessories for him. The affidavit was signed by Herbert Jacobson, assistant Montgomery county prosecutor.

Leader Assails Police

Thousands At Picket's Rites

CHICAGO — (UP) — Ralph Helstein, president of the striking CIO Packinghouse Workers, today asked Attorney General Tom Clark to investigate "brutal and wanton police terrorism" in breaking up massed picket lines at Kansas City, Kans.

He asked Clark to "demonstrate that civil liberties in this country have more substance than simply high-sounding phrases."

Helstein made his plea to Clark as Chicago strikers gathered to participate in a huge funeral parade for Santos Cicardo, union picket who was crushed to death when he attempted to stop a truck from entering an Armour plant here.

Chicago members of the Packinghouse Workers union attended a mass meeting last night where union officials urged them to "hold firm" in their strike demands and to turn out for Cicardo's funeral today. The procession was scheduled to wind past the struck plants.

Forty-five strikers were injured yesterday when police moved against the pickets at Kansas City and wrecked the union headquarters across the street from the Cudahy Packing plant.

SIX IN HOSPITAL

Six pickets were taken to hospitals. They included two women.

Detective Captain Eli Dahlin, who commanded the 100 police officers in the melee, said today that his men invaded the union hall only after pickets had seized him and "jerked" him through the door.

Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas said at Topeka that he was grieved by the fighting.

"Violence like that is very bad news," he said.

Helstein announced at Chicago today that the union would appeal a temporary injunction issued by Judge Leonard C. Reid to limit picketing at the Chicago plant of Armour and company.

Reid announced last night that he intended to issue the injunction which would permit only 10 pickets at each of the Armour plant gateways here.

It was at one of those gates that Cicardo was killed. The union has had as many as 75 men and women on picket duty at each gate in the past.

A similar order was issued yesterday at Kansas City shortly after the rioting there. District Judge Willard H. Benton issued a temporary order restraining the union from mass picketing at the Cudahy plant.

Ask Woman Officer

The city may soon have a woman on the police force.

The News-Journal learned today that legislation authorizing the hiring of a police woman as suggested by Police Chief Jesse J. Schwab probably will be presented to council May 4.

The chief has stated that a police woman would be a great aid to law enforcement work in the city. He said she would be detailed to handle juvenile and female prisoners. She would also act as a stenographer.

The city employs at present one clerk stenographer. Two had been in the department, on April 15 Miss Garnet Karl resigned to take up duties at the county engineer's office and her position has not been filled.

22 Girls Sell Cancer Tags

Twenty-two smartly garbed young high school girls took their stations at downtown street corners today. They carried small boxes in which Mansfielders were asked to deposit their coins.

The reason? Mansfield's third annual cancer fund drive, in which the city has been asked to raise $24,000 toward their own and National Cancer Fund campaign.

The girls were members of the Blue Tri clubs of the YWCA. They had volunteered their services to help put across the campaign.

Reds Using 'Smear' Tactics In Austria

VIENNA—(UP)—The Soviets are pushing a propaganda campaign against the U. S. Army in Austria with a charge that American troops tortured an Austrian in an effort to extort information about Russian military operations.

The official Tass news agency said Friday that Kurt Turk. Austrian guard at the Soviet-operated Zisterdorf oil fields, was tortured by Americans seeking reports on what the Russians were doing in the fields.

The Austrian ministry of interior and the U.S. army command here had no knowledge of such a case.

Only Thursday Tass said that U.S. troops had kidnaped two Austrians in Soviet territory near Tullin airport northwest of Vienna.

Austrian and American officials said they knew nothing about that charge either.

The outburst against the Americans came in the wake of a thwarted attempt by three Russian officers to abduct a woman in the U.S. zone of Vienna.

The Americans charged that they violated all the rules in the book, and a protest was lodged with the Russian command.

'A Dream Come True' Is Home By Brook

(Editor's Note: Miss Dewhurst, journalism student at Bowling Green State university, is working for 10 days in the News-Journal editorial department to obtain practical newspaper experience. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dewhurst, 239 Rae avenue.

By EILEEN DEWHURST

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Totman of Springmill road have made "a dream come true."

That is the way Mrs. Totman describes the six-year project of planting and landscaping she and her husband have completed on the four and one-half acres surrounding their semi-bungalow home.

And for others who would like to raise beautiful flowers such as have made the Totman place one of the most attractive in the Mansfield area, Mrs. Totman has a formula:

"Just loving them is what does it," she says.

"I believe in that poem that says being in a garden is being in the nearest place to God," she added.

Landscaping is Mrs. Totman's hobby. She has done most of that part of the work. Jonquils and narcissus are now in bloom, but her purple and white phlox will change the color scheme soon. The first of 75 tea roses should be blooming by June.

The small brook which runs across the Totman property is fed by a spring. Mrs. Totman has been told that the water in this spring is like that in the Blue Hole and that it is only found in one other place in Ohio.

The water never freezes and vegetation around it is similar to that at the Blue Hole.

Besides the flowers and evergreen shrubs, there are locust, ash and buckeye trees. The locusts are favorites of the Totmans because they flower early and seem to attract the most bees.

VEGETABLES, TOO

The Totmans raise their own vegetables. They preserve them in a deep freezer in their basement. An orchard supplies peaches, plums, pears and quinces. Raspberries and strawberries round out their fruit diet.

Describing herself and her husgand as "city farmers," Mrs. Totman says that they keep enougn chickens to furnish them with eggs.

"There was nothing but weeds when we came here six years ago," shes aid. Today the property is cleared and landscaped and a small bridge spans the stream.

The Totmans have lived in the country for 15 or 20 years. Six years ago, they bought the house they now occupy. Both had admired it since childhood.

Farley Story At Library

Narrative Gives Insight to Politics

"JIM FARLEY'S STORY" is one of 17 new books which will be added to the Mansfield library next Monday.

The book, an enlightening narrative of American politics, is based on copious notes taken by Farley in his 30 years of campaigning. The author believes that this country has come through every crisis safely, that the worst has never happened and never will.

IT'S GREEK TO ME by Willie Snow Ethridge is a breezy personal account of a visit to Greece by the wife of a member of our Balkan commission. This amusing, if unimportant, contribution to current affairs often throws more light than the author intended on our European activities.

MIRABEAU by Antonia Vallentin is biography more absorbing than fiction. In spite of his profligate and spendthrift youth, Mirabeau became a powerful proponent of democratic principle, and by skillful oratory one of the architects of the French Revolution. Largely because of the enmity of Lafalette, and the stubbornness of Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI, did he fail to achieve a bloodless revolution by advocacy of a constitutional monarchy.

Other non-fiction: REBEL AT LARGE by Creel. BRIGHT WITH SILVER by Pinkerton, FREE ADMISSION by Chase. Recess Called In Negotiations

Contract negotiations between the Ohio Brass company and the United Electrical Workers union, Local 758, will resume at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Art Wernick, the union's business agen, said recess was agreed Friday upon for the convenience of both parties.

He reported no progress in the negotiations. The principal issue at hand is a "substantial wage increase," he said.

heard messages from President Truman, House Speaker Joseph Martin and Army officials, warning of the threat of an impending world crisis.

Col. H. William Holsinger of Cleveland opened the panel discussion. He spoke for the affirmative on the question "Shall We Have Universal Military Training?"

Holsinger, who served in both World wars, and was an executive officer on Gen. MacArthur's staff, said "we must have a military establishment adequate to fulfill our world commitments. "In any war it is necessary to occupy the country of the enemy," he said. Universal military training would train the infantry necessary for this job.

Alva R. Dittrick, principal of Thomas Jefferson Junior High school in Cleveland, spoke for the negative. He argued that universal military training will contribute nothing toward fulfilling our world commitments, that the average professional soldier is not capable of carrying out this broad program, and that the program gives the military too much power.

Speaking for the affirmative Loren E. Soucers of Canton who was a captain of infantry in the last war, disagreed with Dittrick's arguments. He said that we must prepare now, later may be too late

Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner pastor of the First Methodist church, Mansfield, completed the discussion for the negative He said: "To prepare a man to kill is to lift out the lowest in man and to place it above the highest." He said he was speaking as a Methodist preacher who is interested in the salvation of man. He emphasized the moral degradation which service in the armed forces may produce in young men.

In summing up the discussion, Judge Arthur H. Day, Cleveland, said that both sides seemed to agree on one thing. That point is that when America loses her spiritual values, democracy is doomed. "We must therefore lead the resurgence of spiritual values."

Election of state officers and selection of a 1949 convention city were scheduled for today.

Likely This Meat Would Be 'Vealison'

BALTIMORE—(AP) Farmer H! Y. Thompson's calf, which he claimed was sired by a deer, had veteran cattlemen at the union stockyards here scratching their heads.

Thompson said he didn't give a hoot whether the half cow, half deer was scientifically possible.

"I know the facts about this critter," he added.

He claimed a big buck deer had been cavorting with his herd at Bel Air, Md., for years.

The calf, out of an Aberdeen-Angus cow, has a head and snoot shaped like a deer and its hide is mottled gray instead of the conventional Angus coal black. The legs are long and thin instead of stumpy and fat and it weighs only 500 pounds instead of the normal 1,000.

But whatever it is, it will soon be on meat platters. Thompson is selling the critter to a packing company.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1948

Drive carefully—and be thankful that the old car will serve you for quite awhile yet.

"There are two Harry Trumans," confidently asserts one writer—which brings the thought that it might be a good idea to try the other one for awhile.

An item is to the effect that "the restaurant trend is toward fewer dishes and a simpler bill of fare"—not forgetting, of course, that such changes necessitate price increases.

Court Places Lewis 'On Good Behavior'

IT SEEMS unlikely—if coal miners stay on the job—that there will be any further penalty imposed on John L. Lewis on the civil contempt charge, under which he is still liable in the event of another work stoppage by miners.

Recommendation by the government that additional punishment be withheld was based on the argument that no useful purpose would be accomplished by adding to penalties already imposed against Lewis and the United Mine Workers Union for criminal contempt of court.

While Lewis's action in causing the shut-down of coal mining operations cannot be condoned, this has been such a long-time practice of his that abrupt conversion to what is hoped to be a better era in labor-management relations could scarcely be expected.

This time it was controversy over retirement pensions for miners that resulted in the strike, as wage increases have already been so substantial as to make coal prices to consumers almost prohibitive and to add considerably to costs of other commodities in which coal is an expense item.

The matter of pensions for miners who reach retirement age is merely a segment of the whole general movement toward old-age security for persons who have been productive workers over a long period. The theory that savings of employed persons should be sufficient to carry them comfortably through later unproductive years does not work out in practice—a fact recognized by many employers and also taken into account by the federal government in its thus far inadequate social security set-up.

Whether or not the plan to pay miners $100 a month pension, with retirement age at 62, is actuarially sound, has not yet been determined, but this is something that can surely be ironed out in a friendly way, without further resort to the strike technique, which, by the way, should quickly become outmoded in all labor-management controversies.

Will Philippines Change Policies?

THE DEATH of Manuel Roxas and the succession of Elpidio Quirino to the presidency of the Philippines can be expected to result in some change in the official attitude of the new republic toward the United States.

Roxas was almost more an American than a Filipino. When the Japanese swarmed over the islands he went to Corregidor with the Americans, and remained there until the fortress fell. The heart attack which caused his death a few days ago came at the end of a speech in which he had pledged that if war came again the Filipinos would fight beside the Americans again.

Quirino is not less friendly to the United States, and as vice president and foreign secretary of the Philippines he has followed and supported Roxas. But he is opposed to military involvement with the United States.

The military bases which the United States retains in the Philippines are held under long-term treaty, in the negotiation of which Quirino represented the Philippines. He drove a hard bargain in the effort to remove American installations as far as possible from the seat of government in Manila.

Auto Inspections Disclose Defects

IN A RECENT motor vehicle inspection campaign in Pennsylvania, a tenth of the vehicles checked were found to be defective. The finding takes on new meaning in view of the fact that vehicles registered in Pennsylvania are inspected twice a year, and must be passed as safe to remain in use.

In a six-month period, one vehicle in ten in that state became unsafe. Probably the owners of most of these vehicles were unaware of the defects until discovered at an inspection station. No one can guess how many of the defects might have escaped notice until after they caused accidents.

More highway accidents are caused by defective drivers than by defective vehicles. Nevertheless programs of periodic compulsory inspection of vehicles, such as that operated in Pennsylvania, help to reduce the number of accidents resulting from mechanical failure. Perhaps similar inspection for drivers might also be a good idea.

Some Jobs Only Appear 'Easy'

VOCATIONAL guidance can be made very helpful to young people who are casting about for some line of work in which they hope to succeed. The purpose, insofar as possible, is to avoid trying to fit "square pegs into round holes," and more attention is being given to this subject than even a generation ago.

Inclination of some young people is to get into what they think is an "easy job"—which accounts for choice of a so-called "professional career" by at least occasional hangers-on in some professions—none of which is "easy" for the capable persons therein.

"Newspaper work," for instance, seems attractive to a number of young people, and, whenever possible, opportunity is given for a tryout, but anyone looking for an "easy" job is advised to look toward some other vocation as few other fields of activity have greater need for ambition, energy, clear thinking, honesty and dependable sobriety than is required for attaining even a fair degree of success in the interesting but laborious tasks involved in producing a newspaper.

As one try-out reporter said the other day, in quitting the job after a few weeks' training, "I didn't know it would be such hard work."

Information comes, without confirmation, that a Texan has bought his wife a $19,500 Rolls-Royce to match her new hat—and it's nice to learn that cars in that price range are available at almost a moment's notice.

Clyde Moore notes: "It is roughly estimated that 75 per cent of conversation could be eliminated without harmful effect."

A noiseless pop corn bag is being developed—but efforts to perfect a celery silencer have thus far failed.

A Different Guide Might Find a Better Road.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Decision Again Becomes 'Guns or Food?'

ONCE AGAIN, the old 1942 phrase, "guns or butter," is before us—but with a different emphasis. In those days we heard about the shortage of supply; now we will hear about a decline in purchasing power.

A big armament building program, such as seems essential as long as war is a possibility, differs from a war in its effect on our economy. War takes millions of producers into the services and reduces the working force.

Those taken into the services no longer compete for jobs or for the pool of money flowing into private hands from wages and profits. They must be fed and clothed, and the money for that comes from borrowed money and taxes.

The food they eat and the clothes they wear come from the supplies available from production. Hence, there is a larger supply of money for those left at home, but less stuff to buy in the markets.

In an armament building program, not so many producers are taken into the services. Those who would be taken under the President's program would be boys and young men who in the main were not workers but school and college boys. Armaments, it is true, take large amounts of steel and other types of supply, but in the highly technical nature of post-war armament the quantities of material required do not so heavily bear on consumer goods.

* * *

Burdensome Taxes.

SUCH a situation, therefore, permits a continuous production of consumer articles which may, to a considerable degree, stabilize prices. Food will be more plentiful and probably cheaper. While this will benefit some of us, it will reduce farm income, despite large purchases by ERP. All in all, economists see a decline in purchasing power and in the standard of living, despite armament building.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers, in its most recent report, warned of this decline in reasonable terms. It said: "Consumer purchasing power today is less than at any time since 1942 . . . In the first three months of 1948 the per capita dollar income indicated an annual rate of $1,274 or $58 more than last year, but the catch is that, while income went up, prices went up even faster in terms of what a dollar would buy in the first half of 1947."

The burden of taxes still bears heavily on the standard of living, even after the recent tax cut. It is still well beyond 25 per cent of the national income.

When Fred Vinson was secretary of the treasury, he clearly told us that a modern capitalistic economy cannot in the long run maintain a tax burden beyond 25 per cent of the national income without injury. When it exceeds that rate, the standard of living must go down.

In the budget year 1947-1948, we are taking from our economy about $48,000,000,000 for federal taxes and $12,000,000,000 for state and local purposes. This $60,000,000,000 exceeds the 25 per cent limit, for our national income, however it is figured, cannot be over $180,000,000,000 to $200,000,000,000. Thus, even with a tax cut, we are beyond the limit.

Armament demands must add $4,000,000,000 more to our burden and with an election coming we can hardly expect cuts of more than $2,500,000,000 in other sections of the budget. Our national production will hardly rise over 3 per cent.

There is some rather cold comfort in all this, because Russia will be in the same fix, and consequently its own standard of living must go down. But the difference is that, while our people may complain, Russians will not be permitted to do so.

Washington Calling

Wallace, the 'Symbol'

By MARQUIS CHILDS

NEW YORK—Henry Wallace has his campaign headquarters in the last surviving mansion of the day, this brownstone fortress—it Park Avenue. Because Wallace is the No. 1 political enigma of our day, the brownstone fortress—it is said to be bullet-proof—is the focus of the hopes and the fears of millions of Americans.

Wallace's private office is in what was once a smallish bedroom on the second floor of the old mansion. At the windows back of his desk are brick-red draperies. He sits facing a marble fireplace. Over the fireplace is a print of Grant Wood's portrait of his mother, an angular woman painted against an expanse of middle western sky.

Both Wallace and the portrait look out of place in this city environment, with the thunder of traffic just outside. He sits hunched down in his chair, the familiar look of inwardness, of self-contemplation, on his face.

It is hard to realize that for some this man is saint, endowed with all the virtues, and for others devil, prophet of evil, determined to destroy the good, the safe, the secure. What impresses the Washington visitor, seeing Wallace in this new setting, is how little he has changed since the old days.

Outwardly, yes. His hair is nearly white. The wrinkles around his eyes have deepend. He has gained weight.

But in spite of these changes, he even looks the same. His carelessly-tied necktie goes off in different directions. His shirt, with one button missing, bulges out over his belt.

He talks exactly as he talked when he was vice-president and when he was secretary of commerce the same slow formulation of ideas and sentiments, painted generously with a broad sweep.

The same homely expressions come into his talk. He refers to what "the folks out west" are thinking. (Or what he thinks they're thinking). He speaks of members of his family as "Sister Mary" and "Brother John."

Questions and issues that annoy or disturb him he brushes aside, as a hard-working man would brush away a gnat buzzing around him. The influence of the communists on his campaign, the intentions of Russia in the world, these are extraneous to the stream of his talk, which starts and stops and starts again.

* * *

ABOVE ALL, Wallace is a symbol. To the clever men around him who are directing his campaign for the presidency, he is an extremely useful symbol.

The question that arises is to what degree he lends himself—consciously and deliberately—to their purposes. To put it another way, how much of him is calculating politician and how much is homespun idealist unconcerned with clever shifts in strategy?

That is a question always with any man of vaulting ambition. But with Wallace it is the heart of the enigma.

While he gets a lot of assistance from the able, determined men around him, it is clear that Wallace is a shrewder and more calculating politician than he appears to be on the surface.

Dwight McDonald, who made a thorough study of Wallace's writing and speeches before writing a book on the third-party candidate, found that he had said almost everything on every side of every question since he came into prominence in 1933 as secretary of agriculture in the New Deal. Expedience counts for much more than is at first apparent.

He says what he has said often before—that he is in the race to stay. The nomination of Justice William O. Douglas or General Eisenhower instead of President Truman would make no difference because, as he puts it, the Democratic party is committed to war.

Soon he will leave to speak in Iowa and Kansas. Next month he will make a strenuous tour of the west coast. Wallace, the dedicated man, the symbol, the shrewd politician, is on his way.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Butter-Oleo Battle Is Nearing Showdown

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

OLEOMARGARINE versus butter, an issue salty with controversy, will be renewed Monday in Congress after the House agricultural committee thought it safely pigeonholed for another session.

The battle will be renewed because 218 Congressmen signed a petition forcing out of commitee legislation to repeal federal taxes on margarine. Debate will be heacy and non-partisan.

Pitted against each other are legislators from the midwest dairy country and those from the South, which grows cotton, soybeans and peanuts which go into oleo. Lobbyists, pro and con, are powerful.

Actually, in this fight, there are no neutrals. Congressmen from non-agricultural districts would like food prices reduced to benefit consumers.

The oleo tax never was intended to produce revenue for the government. It was designed to protect the dairy interests from too much competition from oleo.

Tax on Color.

The core of the dispute is a tax of 10 cents a pound on margarine colored yellow—like butter. The tax on uncolored margarine is one-quarter of a cent a pound.

The butter advocates argue that unrestricted sale of oleo would be a fraud on the public because it could be sold as butter.

The margarine industry says that oleo, fortified with vitamin A, is fully as nutritious as butter. As to color, they point out that butter is artificially colored yellow in wintertime anyway. Consumers, they add, have ample protection from fraud in the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Southern legislators, almost to a man, protest that special taxes on oleo penalize one domestic industry at the expense of another.

Housewives who buy nearly one billion pounds of oleo a year could save thousands of hours if they did not have to color it themselves.

At Home

History Repeats.

It almost seemed history was repeating itself in the legal battle between John L. Lewis and the government.

Sixteen months ago Lewis and his United Mine Workers were fined for contempt of court for refusing to call off a coal strike which had crippled the nation's heavy industry.

Lewis was in the same predicament this week in the same court before the same judge. As before he and his union were convicted and fined. As before they appealed.

The fines this week were exactly double—for second offenders: Lewis $20,000 and the UMW $1,400,000.

* * *

Zooming State Revenues.

Total tax revenues of the 48 states increased 58 per cent from 1941 to 1947, according to a survey by the Tax Foundation, Inc.

In 1947 tax revenues in 35 states were from 51 to 148 per cent greater than in 1941.

The primary factor in increased state tax revenue has been high national income, the report says. Some taxes have shown phenomenl growth. These have more than doubled in seven years: general sales tax in 16 states, individual income tax in 24 states, corporate income taxes in 19 states, alcoholic beverage taxes in 20 states and tobacco taxes in 16.

* * *

Drop In Divorces.

The nation's divorce rate which shot up alarmingly during the war is going back down. Last year's divorces dropped one-fourth from the all-time high in 1946, insurance statisticians reported this week.

Researchers said Nevada had a 34 per cent decline, Florida, South Dakota, Texas, Michigan and Minnesota had decreases of 20 per cent or more.

Three-fifths of the marriages dissolved were childless, the report said, adding that many of those divorced lost little time in remarrying.

* * *

Stretching Gasoline.

A chemical that boosts the output of gasoline by 25 per cent was reported this week to the American Chemical Society in convention at Chicago.

It also yields more fuel oil from the same starting amount of crude, according to R. W. Richardson, F. B. Johnson and L. V. Robbins, jr., of the Esso Standard Oil Co., Baton Rouge.

The chemical is a new catalyst which stimulates the cracking or breakdown of crude oil into gasoline and heating fuel.

The process has been tested in model refineries and full-scale demonstrations will be made soon.

Abroad

Communism Rejected

Italy's rejection of communism by such a decisive margin at the national elections last Sunday and Monday is, of course, a tremendous victory for the west. It takes Italy out of the Red-dominated Balkan sphere. It makes Italy a dike against the westward spread of communism. It makes Italy a prospective partner of the western European democracies.

It is a tremendous victory for the world's anti-communist forces, especially for the Roman Catholic church and for the United States, which for the first time in history intervened in the internal politics of a major European country.

But the fight against communism in Italy is by no means over. A battle, rather than a war, has been won.

Defeat at the polls is a political setback. Communists have other strings to their bow. Elsewhere in Europe, communist minorities have resorted to force and intimidation when unable to gain their goal by legal means.

* * *

Britain's Decision.

Britain is reconverting physically and psychologically from the war. Under forced draft (with American aid), she is rebuilding her industries and manufacturing for export while her populace exists on stern austerity rations.

In an historic decision, the house of commons decided to abolish capital punishment for murder during a trial period of five years. The vote for this notable experiment—245 to 222—cut across party lines and hinged on whether the gallows actually protects society.

The modern Briton has an unusual respect for law, order and the sanctity of property. London police are unarmed. Even during the war thefts did not soar in heavily bombed districts.

* * *

Built to Burn.

Bit by bit, Manila's jerry-built post-war business structures are burning down and being replaced with new ones just as inflammable.

In the past year, the Philippines' capital has had 739 fires involving property worth more than $23,740,000. Fire insurance rates have increased 500 per cent.

Authorities say many of the blazes are incendiary, but proof is difficult to obtain.

Test "Atomic Weapon."

The christening of this country's new atomic proving ground on Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands was revealed this week by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The commission's terse announcement, that an "atomic weapon" had been tested, touched off speculation over what its nature might be. There are persistent rumors that this country might be studying guided missiles with atomic warheads at the remote Pacific laboratory.

There has been no official announcement, however, that such an atomic missile has been developed.

In Short

Offered: By the United States, to send American troops to Palestine if other countries picked by the United Nations would join them.

Granted: By the Interstate Commerce Commission, an added 4 per cent temporary freight increase to railroads, which will cost the publice an estimated $300,000,000 a year.

Named: Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois as keynoter and House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., as chairman of the Republican national Convention which opens June 21 in Philadelphia.

Rejected: By the Supreme Court, an appeal by South Carolina Democrats that their party had the status of a "private club" and legally could keep Negroes from voting in state Democratic primaries.

DeWitt Mackenzie's Column

Democracy's Opportunity

VICTORY of the anti-communist forces in the Italian national election is giving a mighty lift to morale among the democracies in their fight against totalitarian communism.

This is particularly true of western Europe, across portions of which the shadow of communism has been striking heavily. The reaction has been immediate and enthusiastic.

The London Daily Express says the election is "the latest and most spectacular phase of the swing to the right which is now at work over western Europe," and continues to sum up the situation thus:

"Marshall aid played a big part . . . but even if there had been no Marshall aid, (Premier) De Gasperi's (Christian Democratic) party would still have won. They would have won because Italy was asked to choose between the democratic outlook of the West and the authoritarian communism of the East."

From Jacob Kaiser, head of the Christian Democrats in Berlin, comes a somewhat similar view. He declares that the outcome of the election "confirms that no population in this world voluntarily will choose dictatorship when given a free, democratic election."

All the evidence at hand since bolshevism came to power in Russia in 1917 supports Kaiser's view. The whole history of communism during the past generation is a story of an ism being thrust on unwilling peoples by trickery and force.

There isn't a single one of Moscow's satellites in eastern Europe which would have accepted communism if the people had been allowed a free vote. Apropos of this thought Winston Churchill describes the Italian elections as "an historic event and adds:

"Italy now regains her place in the ranks of the principal powers of Europe instead of being—like so many unhappy countries—made to live in the cage with the bear."

* * *

Democracy On Trial.

WELL, where do we go from here? Since Italian deputies are elected for five years, and senators for six, the assumption is that there will be an anti-communist government in power until 1953—barring a rebellion. Within that period Italy must consolidate her democracy, and contribute to the general welfare of democracy in western Europe.

What this means is well summed up by the London Times, which says the victorious Christian Democrats must now make good their claims "that they can give to Italy by constitutional means an economic and social rebirth that the communists held out as a sequel to revolution."

That's the answer for Italy—and it's the answer for every country which is threatened with the Red plague.

Communism drives its entering wedges by preying on distress and discontent. The war plowed the ground for communism by creating chaotic conditions in many countries.

Privation, including Stark hunger, has been thrust upon numerous peoples—and when folk are hungry they think with their stomachs. They are ready to gamble on most anything which may produce food.

So the democracies must demonstrate that they have something concrete which will take the place of the Red promises. And that is true not only for the countries where there is actual distress but in the more prosperous lands where there still is discontent because of economic and social conditions.

On-Job Training Racket.

Disclosure that 187 veterans are "training" to become car washers, that 1,605 are "training" to become parking lot or filling station attendants, that almost 300 are "training" to become athletes, sports instructors, or sports officials is not altogether surprising.

The figures now released by the Veterans Administration merely confirm the rumors long prevalent that this benefit accorded veterans by a grateful Government has been subject to widespread abuse.

By its very nature, the on-the-job training program was bound to cause trouble. By providing supplemental pay for workers in private industry at government expense, it invited employe and employer to work in cahoots for their mutual benefit.

It was an easy way for the employe to get more money without costing the employer anything. In fact, no one lost any money through such abuses except the impersonal taxpayers and to them it was merely a drop in an enormous bucket.—Toledo Blade.

Committee Listens to 'Pro' Side Of Liquor Advertising Question

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Most men don't give a pftt for ads about breath of geranium perfume or cold wave kits. The gals don't care about cigar notices.

So, said the witness, that goes to show that people read only the ads that interest them most.

The witness was Mr. Edward F. O'Brien, who looked like the "man of distinction" himself in blue jacket and stiff white collar. He spoke for the Distilled Spirits institute before an interstate commerce subcommittee of the Senate. The group was considering bills that would put handcuffs on liquor advertising on grounds it spoofs that drinking public. The committee had heard the other side the day before.

Mr. O'Brien said that his observation was that a person didn't lean back in his easy chair and flip the pages of his magazine or paper nervously until he came to a liquor ad.

"People," he said, "aren't made that way. They thumb through their reading in an orderly manner.

Some of the witnesses the day before had claimed that the liquor ads, maybe, exaggerated a tiny bit. Like saying a certain brand of booze was as "precious as old diamonds."

"Well," said Mr. OBrien "There is—maybe—a poetic license in advertising, which the courts allow all of us."

"How about," he went on saying, "'Ponds.' They fix up Mrs. Vanderbilt or the Duchess and say 'Lookit.'"

"You suppose," he asked the committee, "that the Ponds people mean to imply that every woman who pats the stuff on her face can expect someday to be a member of the royalty or be big stuff in a big house? Of course not! What the ad means to get over to us little guys is that the little woman who uses Ponds is using the same stuff that big, important people use.

"It's the same thing when you use a 'man of distinction' ad."

What Mr. O'Brien was trying to point out—and said so several times—is that "there is no difference between that face cream stuff and ads for intoxicants."

A great deal went into the record in the early part of the hearing concerning allegedly "dishonest advertising." One witness to reply to this was Arthur D. Jenkins, publisher of the Carlyle (Ill.) Union Banner.

The money the little papers would lose, he said, wouldn't pay the printer's devil.

It was the principle of the thing.

Censorship in ads, he said, is dangerous. Mr. O'Brien borrowed a few words from an old Florida publisher friends, who said:

". . . I don't think the distillers are benefactors of mankind—nor do I envision them as having horns, tails of pitchforks. . . . I simply see something (in these bills) that could spread to government control of all advertising."

There, gents, is the other side of the picture.

Courageous Entertainers Refused To Surrender Despite Injuries

THEY ALL CAME BACK!—Marjorie Lawrence was holding an audience entranced that night at the Mexico City opera house—singing "Brunehilde"—when suddenly her rich voice broke and trailed off in a moan of agony. Paralysis had struck—and the young singer on the parapets of fame, who was doomed to die, compromised for a wheel chair. Nurse Kenny, time, and the indomitable will of the singer triumphed and, from that wheel chair, she fought her way back to the Metropolitan Opera in "Tristan and Isolde." One of the hundreds of telegrams she got after her triumph was "from an old veteran to a raw recruit"—with the admonition—"Carry On." It was signed, "F.D.R."

Comic Joe E. Lewis defied "Machine Gun" Mike McGurn, owner of the Green Mill night club, and opened in a rival club—with police protection. But Chicago was a tough town in the late 1920s, and even the police couldn't stop three McGurn hoodlums who banged into Joe's room—beat him up—slashed his cheeks and hacked away at his tongue. Joe couldn't talk—and talking was his stock in trade. For the next three years, Father Heister of Notre Dame spent days and nights teaching Joe E. Lewis to talk again. Joe learned, too—and how! Drop in any night club where he's the star—or ask lovely Martha Stewart how he talked her into that wedding ring.

When Jane Froman came out of the crash of the ill-fated Yankee Clipper in 1943, Broadway was sure the curtain had been rung down on an up-to-then brilliant career. An arm and a leg were broken, but her spirit wasn't. Scarcely out of the hospital, Jane was backstage, all set to start over again. But not yet. Her leg still in a cast, she tumbled backwards from a bench and landed back in the hospital. But not for keeps. Between operations (she's had 25), Jane has sung her way back to a top spot among radio songbirds. . . . And our scoop on a recent Sunday night told of her new husband—the co-pilot who saved her in that Lisbon crash.

When Jimmy Savo lost a leg Broadway wept. But bad luck couldn't squeeze any tears out of Jim. He took time out to laugh. . . . He stayed right in character. Convalescing in the hospital he convulsed the other patients. There was a new show every day. Hit number was when he balanced on his good left leg—waved his crutches and played airplane up and down the corridors. In other words, Jimmy just kept on with the business of playing it for laughs, come what may. And when he was back doing "River" and "Meat Ball" for adoring audiences he figured he couldn't find a better guy to show disabled vets the loss of an arm or leg didn't mean loss of life, liberty or the pursuit of happiness. He showed 'em. . . . It was just another challenge. . . . Another chip on Fate's shoulder.

Susan Peters wasn't an overnight Hollywood sensation. She literally forced her way in—test by test, bit by bit, part by part. Came the ingenue role in "Tish," and producers saw a star—where a little girl had stood before. . . . The top was hers when she costarred with Ronald Colman in "Random Harvest." Her rise was fast, but tough luck strikes lightning-fast. Duck-hunting, she accidentally discharged her gun; the bullet entered her spine. Partial paralysis! A wheel chair! No more "lights, camera, action."

But Susan Peters is a fighter. She read one story after another—looking for the role that would bring her back to the screen. Then she found it in Margaret Ferguson's "The Sign of the Ram." . . . Where there's a will. . . .

CIO Calls Recess In Negotiations

Report Planned To Members of UE

NEW YORK —(AP)— The CIO United Electrical Workers union said yesterday it had called an indefinite recess in contract negotiations with the General Electric and Westinghouse companies.

The recess, a U-E spokesman said, was decided so a report could be made to the membership on the unsuccessful efforts of union negotiators to win a "substantial wage increase" from the electrical companies.

U-E President Albert J. Fitzgerald denounced what he called the companies' "callous refusal to meet the cost-of-living needs of their employes." He said their action was "part of a corporation conspiracy to deny decent living needs of their employes." He said their action was "part of a corporation conspiracy to deny decent living standards to American workers."

G. H. Pfeif, manager of the employe relations for General Electric, said the negotiations had been recessed at the union's request after a brief discussion of "the developments of the last 24 hours in prices and negotiations in other industries."

DENIES CHARGE

Later, L. R. Boulware, G-E vice president, denied Fitzgerald's charge that the company's position against a wage increase was part of a conspiracy.

Boulware, asserting profits of the two firms now stood at their highest levels, said:

"General Electric and Westinghouse workers will not let their families suffer debased living standards while the corporations continue to amass enormous profits."

Negotiations have been in progress here and in Pittsburgh for the past two months. The union is demanding unspecified wage increases, severance pay, longer vacations and additional paid holidays.

Present G-E pay scales average $1.37½ an hour. Westinghouse figures were not available here.

(More than 5,000 Westinghouse employes in Mansfield are affected by the negotiations.)

Marshall Is Home Again

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State Marshall returned to Washington today to deal with the "important events" he said necessitated his leaving the Bogota Inter-American conference.

The secretary's plane reached the airport here at 9 a. m. (EST) after an overnight flight from Bogota.

Marshall left the afternoon session of the conference yesterday after informing fellow delegates it was necessary for him to depart immediately.

The secretary's C-54 plane took off at 5 p. m. Marshall was accompanied by Brig. Gen. Marshall S. Carter, a special assistant.

Marshall had been in Bogota since March 29, the day before the opening of the ninth international conference of 21 American states.

The conference probably will continue another week. Because of the secretary's departure, the formal signing of conference agreements will be left to another member of the U. S. delegation, it was said.

Mothers Organize Barber Shop Quartet

You've heard a lot about Mansfield's barber shop quartets, but have you heard of the Mothers' Barber Shop quartet?

Mrs. Kenneth A. Smith, 499 South Diamond street, February program chairman for the Hedges school Mothers' club, has organized one. Its bookings have increased as its fame spread.

The other members are Mrs. Burton French, 577 South Diamond street; Mrs. Russell Yarman, 394 Lincoln avenue, and Mrs. Robert J. Schell, 1177 West Fourth street.

The quartet made its debut before the Mothers' club.

Mrs. Smith obtained barber jackets from W. C. Boling's shop, 355 South Diamond street. Slacks, bow ties and flannel shirts followed. The ties and shirts were generously donated by husbands.

After several rehearsals the quartet was ready and cards were mailed to the other club members, promising a Barber Shop quartet for the February meeting.

The Mothers' club, expecting the usual male quartet, applauded, with approval, this new innovation.

"We had cut-out cardboard mustaches," Mrs. French said, "and I had a terrible time keeping mine in place when the tape lost its adhesiveness. When I took my finger away from the mustache it stuck to my finger and everyone laughed. They thought it was part of the act."

After that first highly successful performance, the quartet was asked to appear again at the club's annual homecoming meeting. Then the P-TA of Hedges insisted that the mothers sing at its meeting.

They all agree that they have had a wonderful time, but never dreamed that they would be taken seriously. Evidently they have because their husbands hear about it at work and their children want to be excused from school to hear them, when they sing.

Six Return From Sessions

Six delegates from the Mansfield YMCA had returned today from the annual conference of the Ohio West Virginia Area Council of the YMCAs at Columbus. Attending were Irl Fisher, president of the YMCA, Clarence D. Fike, member of the board of directors; Charles L. Taylor is chairman of the Ohio West Virginia special membership committee. He conducted one of the eight workshop groups for the improvement of YMCA membership practice.

Nilkanth Chavre, representative from India to UNESCO, spoke at the conference, calling for a better understanding by the American people of the problems India's new government is facing.

200 Laid Off By Tire Firm

Employment Still Tops Pre-War Total

A normal seasonal decline in tire buying coupled with the fact that conditions in the tire industry are approaching normal has forced the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company to curtail production and to lay off workers.

Roy Waxler, secretary of Local 17 of the United Rubber workers said approximately 200 of the company's 2,300 employes had been laid off. The company declined to reveal the number of workers furloughed.

The company's statement concerning the layoff said in part: "Even with this curtailment, production and employment is better than 100 per cent greater than during the pre-war period. No further decline is foreseen since the seasonal upturn is becoming evident."

Offer Bonus To Quit Gas

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The chief engineer of the Ohio Fuel Gas company said today that his organization has contracts with certain industrial customers which provide that they be paid a bonus to convert from gas to oil or coal.

W. T. Shinholser, the engineer, said that the company has contracted with several industrial users to pay the difference when they convert to fuels costing more than gas.

Shinholser testified before the Federal Power commission which is hearing arguments on the petition of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company to cut gas deliveries to the Ohio Fuel Gas company to no more than 25 million cubic feet a day.

MURAL SHRINKS—

H R. McBride, who put two month's work into painting a mural for the new courtroom on the third floor of the city building, was given a scare today. He applied glue to the back of the canvas depicting the first court in Richland county, and upon pasting the mural to the wall, he found that the drying paste had shrunk the material. Enough leeway was left on either side of the canvas to allow for the shrinkage, however, and everything turned out all right. City Solicitor C J. Kalbfleisch, upon viewing the mural which shows the first "city solicitor" wearing a beard said he did not plan to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor in that detail.

Deputies Arrest Man, 24

Stolen Articles Sold As Junk

A 24-year-old North Diamond street man was being held by sheriff's deputies today in connection with the theft of used household fixtures and building materials three weeks ago from the property of Emmett Casler, 622 Park avenue east.

Sheriff Frank R. Robinson said the loot from Casler's property included farm tools, two cast iron bathtubs, two kitchen sinks, a toilet bowl, hot water heater, cast iron furnace, two copper kettles, porch glider, steel girders, washing machine and steel window sash.

Some of the articles, deputies said, were sold to the Malo Brothers junk yard on West Longview avenue.

SAW TRUCK

Casler told deputies he saw a red truck in the vicinity of his home three weeks ago and that he suspected the drivers of the theft.

A similar theft of used materials was reported today by Mrs. Albert Dunn of Greenwich Center, Huron county.

She said three men in a red-front truck bought some junk at her home on April 17 and then drove off wth a rear axle which they had not paid for.

She said she sold them a stove and washing machine. Mrs. Dunn told deputies she tried to stop the men from taking the axle but that they loaded it on the truck and drove off.

Crowd Jams Farm Sale

ly carloads of other used furniture—chairs, stoves, beds, yes, even an old player piano—awaited offers later in the day.

CONTINUE TONIGHT

George B. Ganyard, county agent, was one of the happiest of the crowd. He had spent long hours arranging the auction, seeking the donations.

"We don't expect to get through until night. People have brought so much," he said. "It's wonderful how the people have responded."

Women gleefully inspected, then bought, articles of every description at the rummage sale and bazaar. Aprons and crocheted pot holders went for 25 cents each. Used children's clothes sold in abundance. Work clothes, most of it good for many more days of hard labor, was in demand.

PUPPIES TOO

New tires and deep freeze units were among prize offerings. In the live stock section, awaiting purchasers, were four calves, six small pigs, a sow, a goat, a bull, chickens and five puppies. The puppies were donated by Rev. Floyd Eckert of Pavonia.

There was dog food, orange crushers, grass seed, produce feed, both home and commercially canned food.

There was candy—huge boxes of it—and cologne; almost anything one could desire. Much of it was new, donated by merchants; much of it used, donated by farmers and their city friends.

But one of the feature offerings was a bantam hen wth 16 chicks. Eight-year-old Dale Tingley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tingley, brought them. Some day Dale, like hundreds of other young present-day rural folk, hopes to find recreation and fellowship in that rural life center in Weller Township.

The total of reported cases for the year was given as 270.

During the first three months of the year, 289 cases of measles were reported in the city.

Power Failure Embarrasses OPS Officials During Display

ASHLAND In the midst of an electrical demonstration at the county farm electrification program at the fairgrounds yesterday, the electric power went off for one and a half minutes in Ashland and at the fairgrounds.

The power break came when a 132,000 volt air-break switch at the Brookside sub-station failed. A hurried switch-over to a new circuit resumed service but not before some very red-faced power company officials had taken a good ribbing.

The demonstration program was arranged and sponsored by the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to acquaint farmers of the area with new farm electrical equipment. Scores of power equipment concerns participated in the displays and demonstrations.

S. F. Jameson, superintendent of Ashland public schools, opened the program as master of ceremonies. Speakers included J. R. Halladay, OPS superintendent in Ashland, and I. P. Blauser of Ohio State university.

Gov. Herbert was expected to visit the fairgrounds this afternoon and to speak at 9 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

THIRTY-FOUR schools are listed to compete in district track and baseball tournaments in Mansfield this spring. . . . The track roster includes 11 Class A schools and 16 Class B teams. . . . The track meet will be staged May 15 on the Stadium field cinders with Harry Mehock directing the affair. . . . Coach Jimmy Lymper is directing the Class A baseball meet which winds up May 15 on the Liberty park and Blue Goose diamonds. . . . Shelby, which is listed in both track and baseball, will not compete in either tournament. . . . The Whippet school has given up all spring sports except golf. . . . Schools listed in the track competition are: Class A, Mansfield, Bellevue, Norwalk, Bucyrus, Galion, Tiffin, Ashland, Port Clinton, Sandusky and Upper Sandusky; Class B, Attica, Holmes-Liberty, Whetstone, Castalia, Harpster, Green Springs, Huron, Milan, Nevada, North Robinson, New London, New Washington, Old Fort, Sulphur Springs, Marseilles and Sycamore. . . . Several Richland county schools are expected to swell the Class B track and field list. . . . The baseball teams in the Mansfield district are: Senior high, Ashland, Galion, Bucyrus, Willard and Bellevue.

TWO MANSFIELD lads will be in the Ohio U. spring football game this afternoon in Athens, Ohio. . . . Dick Gross will start at tackle for one of the teams in the intra-squad tilt and Dave Wentz will sub at center for the other outfit. . . . Both were members of Paul Snyder's 1946 Senior high team. . . . Gross, who tips the scales over 200 pounds, has been shifted from guard. . . . The new softball lights at the Gorman-Rupp field were tested last night. . . . Experts call the G-R lights, "Ohio's best."

★

JOHNNY LONGDEN, the 38-year-old millionaire jockey, booted home a "plater" called Bib yesterday at Bay Meadows. . . . It was the 3,000 winner of his long career. . . . Longden is the first American rider to turn the trick. . . . Before the day was over he had added 3,001. . . . Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones has decided to pass up pro baseball to stay with the Cleveland Browns. . . . That $10,000 a year offer by Paul Brown, which may have been boosted a bit, probably make Jones' mind up . . . However, he will pitch Class A ball in Cleveland again this summer.

Ken Keltner Blasts Pair Of Homers

DETROIT — (INS) — For the last three years, various and sundry individuals have been trying to displant Ken Keltner from third base on the Cleveland Indians' starting nine.

But every spring the 31-year-old veteran from Milwaukee just planted his feet firmly on the "hot corner" and kept pluggin' along until all the flash-in-the-pan rookies were forgotten.

In 1946, it was Bob Lemon who was slated to chase Kenny out of the park. The next season Ed Bockman was groomed as the Tribe's third-baseman. This year Al Rosen put in his bid, but against all of them Keltner has held sway.

Yesterday he showed the reason why. The big German blasted two mightly homers to lead the Indians in a 15-hit assault that sent the previously undefeated Detroit Tigers to an 8-2 beating and left Cleveland the sole occupant of first place in the American league with two victories in the young season.

DOBY GETS ONE

Keltner wasn't the only Indian who clouted for distance. Lemon, the converted infielder-outfielder who hurled his first victory of the 1948 season, pounded out a four-master in the fourth, and Larry Doby, who failed miserably in the season's opener, got the fourth, one of his three hits for the afternoon.

Manager Lou Boudreau equalled Doby's output with a double and two singles and Eddie Robinson and Allie Clark each accounted for a pair of hits apiece. And all the heavy blows were against Detroit's best pitcher of 1947, Freddie Hutchinson.

The Tigers' ace right-hander pitched but five and two-thirds innings and was tagged for six runs and nine hits, including all four homers.

TRIBE GOES WILD

Cleveland led 2-1 going into the sixth by virtue of Doby's third-inning circuit clout and Keltner's first homer in the fourth. Then the contest took on the aspects of a rout.

Joe Gordon doubled to start things off. He scored a moment later when Keltner blasted his second homer of the day. Jim Hegan, opening day hero, kept the rally going with a single. Lemon's round-tripper scored two more runs.

Doby scored once more in the eighth. The Negro star singled into left, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Boudreau's one-baser. Robinson tripled in the ninth and scored after Keltner's long fly for the final Cleveland run.

Meanwhile Lemon was holding the Tigers to six, just two until the seventh. Eddie Mayo, who garnered two of the safeties, poked a double in the third to score Hutchinson with the Tigers' first run. Vic Wertz scored the second Detroit tally in the seventh. He lined a triple to left and tallied on George Kell's fly to center.

Cleveland's Bob Feller was to oppose Art Houtteman in today's battle. The Indian star was after his second straight.

Senior High Ball Game Postponed

The Senior high baseball game at Galion, postponed yesterday because of wet grounds, has not been re-scheduled as yet according to Coach Jim Lymper.

Lymper announced today that drawings for the Class A district baseball tournament will be held on May 2 at 4 p. m. in Senior high gym.

'What a Man,' Says Ted Williams About The Babe

By OSCAR FRALEY, UP Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Nobody interested Ted Williams as he sat on the steps of the Boston Red Sox dugout, his back to the playing field, head bent over clasped hands.

There were many celebrities on the field and in the box seats near the dugouts: Bing Crosby and Walter Huston of the movies; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Ed Barrow, and plenty of others, but Williams ignored them studiously.

Until word wandered down the bench that Babe Ruth was making his way into Yankee stadium. Then The Kid's head shot up and he whirled around to watch the Bambino mince to a box behind the Yankee dugout.

"Gee, he looks swell now, doesn't he?" Williams said, worship in his eyes. "I'm sure glad he got better."

★

THIS WASN'T the cocky, bad boy of baseball. Ted was just a big kid, distinguishable only by his uniform from the horde of youngsters who trailed the Bambino down the aisle. And his eager eyes followed Ruth until the big man in the camel hair coat sat down.

Williams slumped down on the steps again, then, bending over his clasped hands until somebody mentioned the Philadelphia Athletics who in the season's opening series took all three games from the Bosox.

"They won't roll over and play dead for anybody, you can bet on that," he volunteered, looking up. "They've got darned good pitching. Take that Phil Marchildon. When we got three home runs off him, I thought we were ready to go. But he stopped us cold. And that Lou Brissie had plenty of stuff."

★

A SPORTSWRITER asked Williams how he liked working for Joe McCarthy. The tall, slender outfielder looked up slowly from under his long cap brim, hesitated a moment and replied:

"Swell. He tells you what to do and then lets you alone. What more could you want."

The announcer was giving the opening lineups and, when he reached Williams' name, there was a chorus of boos. Williams stiffened and then looked up with a boyish grin.

"Thank you!" he said.

When the announcer reached the name of Joe DiMaggio, there were more boos. This time Williams' grin was wider.

"Must be those Boston fans," Ted laughed. "They boo everybody."

It was time to play then and, just before the game started, Williams walked out of the dugout and took another long look at Ruth.

"What a man," he acknowledged.

The Yellow team defeated the Whites, 28 to 13, in an intra-squad game yesterday afternoon on Stadium field to complete the Senior high school spring football grind.

The teams played two half hour halves. Howie Tipper handled the place-kicking for both teams. He kicked three of four extra points and made two by quarterback sneaks. Joe Letizia punted for both squads.

Bob Ward, right-half, scored two touchdowns for the Yellows and Ken Carver and Dave Wappner each counted one. Letizia and Clarence Bailey each scored for the Whites in the second half.

Esker Jordan and Letizia unreeled the longest gains. Carver's TD was on a 40-yard pass from Ken McCally.

'Discarded' Players Help Phutile Phillies Beat Bums; Dick Sisler Gets Two Homers, Single In 10-2 Victory

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK — (UP) — The Philadelphia Phils were doing very nicely today, thank you, because Manager Ben Chapman has been giving the opposition a ration of old, discarded soup bone.

Using pitchers that nobody else seemed to want, they had picked up three victories out of their first four, including a mighty significant 10 to 2 triumph over the National league champion Dodgers in their home debut at Brooklyn yesterday.

Sylvester (Blix) Donnelly, whom the Cardinals found no need for after he won the 1944 World series for them, pitched the triumph, scattering eight hits and striking out six. Dick Sisler, also discarded by the Cardinals, hit two homers and a single, driving in four runs to lead the 13-hit attack. Del Ennis also hit a homer and Rookie Richie Ashburn got three singles and a stolen base. The loser was Lefty Joe Hatten, who previously had beaten Philadelphia six straight times without a defeat.

Previously, Emil Leonard, discarded by the Senators, and a collaborating trio of Lyn Rowe, ex-Tiger star, Ken Heintzelman, late of the Pirates, and Ed Heusser, who was tossed off by the Dodgers, gave the Phils their other victories. Not a man in the lot is under 33 years old.

Harry Brecheen had to cash in on breaks to maintain his spell against the Cubs at Chicago, pitching a nine-hitter to give the Cards a 1 to 0 victory while loser Johnny Schmitz gave up only two hits in defeat. Schmitz went down in the ninth on a walk and a double by Rookie Ralph Lapointe which produced the only run. It was Brecheen's 20th triumph against five losses in his career against Chicago.

The Giants found a starting and finishing pitcher, wonder of wonders, in Ray Poat and behind his five-hit hurling beat the Braves at Boston, 3 to 1 in their home debut. Moreover they topped Southpaw Ace Warren Spahn, who like Boston's other 20-game winner, Johnny Sain, went down to defeat in his first outing.

Ewell Blackwell, a 22-game winner last season, became the first major leaguer to score a pair of victories in 1948, topping the Pirates for the second time at Cincinnati, 5 to 3 after surviving two bad early innings. Johnny Wyrostek hit a homer for the Reds who went after ex-Dodger hurlers Kirby Higbe and Vic Lombardi for six extra base hits.

The Senators won their third straight, topping the A's at Philadelphia, 5 to 3 with two runs in the 10th on two singles, a sacrifice and Jake Early's double.

In turn, the Red Sox found the World champion Yankees a softer touch at New York, blanking them 4 to 0 as Lefty Mickey Harris pitched a five-hitter and Ted Williams shook off his Yankee Stadium jinx with a line drive homer and two singles.

Four home runs punctuated a 15-hit Cleveland attack against the Tigers, who lost their home opener, 8 to 2.

The Browns and White Sox were idle.

N-J Head Pin Standings Shift

Lynch Takes Over Class A Leadership

By CHARLEY STINE

Five new names were added to the list of News-Journal Head Pin leaders today but the name of Bob Lynch stood head and shoulders above the others.

Lynch piled up 20 strikes, seven of them in succession on the Richland alleys to take over the men's Class A lead from Roy Craig. Lynch had 102-109-114 — 325. Craig who had led the A bowlers since the opening of the joust, had rolled 323.

Lynch got six strikes in his first game and six in the second but it was at the very end that he really started to roll. After striking to open the final game, he had three bad frames and then struck out. He had but one miss, the sixth frame of game No. 1.

Had Lynch not had the misfortune of the single miss he would have stood a fine chance of overtaking Richard Metcalf for the overall lead. Metcalf's score was a 233. He leads the Class B division.

★

Others who bowled their names into place positions included Carl Phillipon of Mitsch's Corner Store, which rolled as a team. Philippon's 320 gave him third place in the A division, and all other members of the team were close behind. They included Orlie Grable, 314, Harold Selby, 255, Frank Burton, 308, and Carl Englehorn, 311.

★

One other first place position changed hands, Art Morrow taking over the leadership of the C division with 100-80-100—288. Thomas Waits who had held the lead with 279 dropped to second place.

★

The other changes in standing concerned the Women's B division. Pauline Shively held onto the lead with 272 but Ruth Malaska took over the runnerup spot with 29-79-94—268. Helen McCracken rolled a 243 to take third place.

★

Two other men cracked "300" but failed to enter the money positions. They were Willie Hipp who turned in 110-96-103—309 and Ernie Faught who posted 95-99-113—307.

Baldwin-Wallace and Gordien Break Drake Relays Records

DES MOINES, Ia. — (UP) — Trackmen from 65 universities and colleges swung into the finals of the 39th annual drake relays today.

Two new marks went into the books yesterday.

Harrison Dillard, a disappointing :14.7 in his qualifying heat yesterday, was given the nod in the 120-yard high hurdles, although Bill Porter, Northwestern, led the first day heat winners with :14.6.

Missouri and Ohio State seemed certain to battle for the relays feature—the mile relay — and possibly goad each other to a new record. However, the best time in the qualifying races was Ohio State's 3:20.8, which is more than six seconds off the record.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota started the record book re-writing by sailing the discus 165 feet 5 inches, or nearly four feet beyond the old standard.

He was followed by a Baldwin-Wallace foursome, anchored by Dillard, which moved the college half-mile in 1:26.6; four-tenths of a second off the mark it established last year.

Buck Baseball Team Wins 7th

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State university's baseball team went after its seventh straight victory in fourth in a row in Western conference play today.

The Bucks plastered a 14-to-2 licking on Northwestern yesterday and had another game with the Wildcats scheduled for today.

Ohio State rapped out 16 hits, including home runs by Centerfielder Ray Gebhardt and Pitcher Pete Perini. Perini held the Wildcats to four hits.

Hipp Pounds High Single Game of 277

High single game efforts seemed to be the rule of the Moose league bowlers on the Colony alleys last night, although some good series were turned in. Don Hipp led the assault on the maples with a 277 opening game, which helped him to a 638 series along with his last two scores were 170 and 191.

George Berry did his pin-spilling much in the same pattern as Hipp. He had a 256 opener and then had to be satisfied with a 175 and 177 for 608.

Three others had a hot game although their totals were in the middle "500's" They were Orlie Grable, 242, Bill Tristler, 234, and C. Henry, 226.

Most workmanlike job was done by Art Hilborn who set a steady pace with 192-199-212—603.

★

Vin Rocco and J. Foulkes shared honors in the Mansfield Tire Owl league. Rocco rolled a 517 series while Foulkes had a 231 single game, and a 506 series. W. Harmon had 511.

★

The Women's Commercial B league closed its season with Charm House being crowned champion. The champs celebrated their title by taking three more games to stretch their lead to six games. The league announced plans for the annual banquet to be held May 4 at Richland Recreation.

A 213 single game and 539 series by Sis DeWeese was good for the final night honors. Mary McMullen's 203 was the only other single game above 200.

★

Two outstanding jobs came in the Independent league. Lou Fariello batted out scores of 183-208-222 for a 613 series, while J. R. Hetler finished with a hot 257 final game. His other scores were 178 and 139 for a 574.

Lloyd Tuttle led the Tappan Stove league with a 235 single game and a 538 series. One other 500 game was turned in—a 505 by Bob Van Tilburg.

A Plea for Righteousness — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Zechariah 1:1-6; 4; 7-8.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

4-24

Zechariah, grandson of one of the heads of 12 priestly families who returned with the Israelites to Jerusalem, heard the voice of the Lord saying that He was displeased with His people because they turned not from their evil ways

The Lord told Zechariah to speak to the priests and people who asked if they should weep for the days of their exile as they did for 70 years, and tell them instead to shew mercy and compassion to every man

For their sins were they scattered said the Lord, but He promised that there should yet be "old men and old women in the streets of Jerusalem and the streets shall be full of boys and girls playing"

Thus said the Lord "Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbor, execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates, and let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbor." MEMORY VERSE—Zechariah 7 9
